

Friends of IMCK (Christian Medical Institute of Kasai)

Our Lord said that “Whosoever does it unto the least of these, does it unto me.” If God stands with the suffering, Jesus is hurting in the Democratic Republic of Congo, in the USA, and around the planet.

The coronavirus pandemic is a call to arms for Christians and non-Christians alike. In the United States there is much anguish and suffering as we view the nightly news. Imagine the impact and suffering that will be born by people in countries, like the Democratic Republic of Congo, where the health system infrastructure is limited and already taxed by war and the recent Ebola crisis. As Christians and compassionate fellow human beings, we are compelled to provide relief to the afflicted, those who are unemployed and are desperate.

In the central region of DR Congo, the Christian Medical Institute of Kasai (IMCK) is feeling the onslaught of coronavirus victims and doctors, nurses, and medical technicians there are struggling on the front lines of this battle. They need your help.

Your financial support is desperately need and will save lives. Personal protective equipment (PPE) is desperately needed. Ventilators are few and far between in this country soon to be ravaged by the virus. Hand washing stations, educational materials, isolation wards....all are in great need and can be provided with your donations.

Please consider giving to save the people of DR Congo from a disastrous infection/mortality rate as the coronavirus unfolds in this continent.

Peace to you and our prayers for your well-being.
